PREFACE TO THE SECOND EDITION

My professional friends, and especially the homoeopaths, are well aware that in the First Edition of this small treatise, I had restricted myself to a limited number of some of the common but "practical medical terms" on the friendly advice of my well-wishers so much so that the book may not become bulky as well as costly. Later on, I myself and my professional friends too, felt that in aiming at the goal, the work was still lacking a long series of many more common terms which the amateurs, medical students and the practitioners need during their busy hours.

Having regard to the feelings expressed hereinabove, I have made an attempt to compile this condensed work with due alertness and tried my best to include in it the majority of those medical terms which may prove to be of real help to everyone—may he be a practitioner, a medical student or a layman. But still my efforts have been not to make it more bulky and costly. I hope, this work will be of real help to my professional friends in its present shape.

While concluding, I shall not forget to keep on record my sincere thanks to my best professional friend Dr. J.S.K. Gupta, my nephew Shri Pan Singh Rawat and the best friend and colleague Shri Jwala Dutt Pandcy but for whose willing assistance I would have not been able to get the manuscript of the book typed in the desired time.

At the same time, I pray to Almighty to bless the great name Dr. Prem Nath Jain who has encouraged me to give this work its present shape.

PREFACE TO THE FIRST EDITION

For the past several years my professional friends had been asking me to prepare an explanatory note-book on some important medical terms which come in our daily use during busy practice. It is quite evident that there are a large number of books containing innumerable medical terms but they are so voluminous that all they contain is not at all required by us in the normal practice. Moreover, they are too costly to suit every pocket, especially the homoeopathic physicians, majority of whom practises homoeopathy on charitable basis. I feel the students also need such like concise work during their college education. With this view, I have succeeded in presenting this small work in the hands of my professional brothers and students. I hope, this will prove quite purposeful for them in their busy hours.

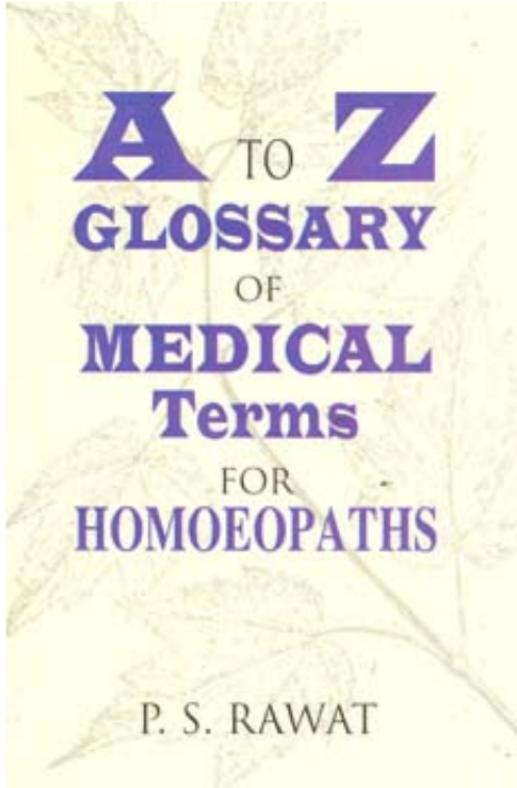

In presenting this work, I wish to keep on record my heartfelt gratitudes to my nephews Pan Singh, Anand Singh and Dr. G.S. Negi and also the best colleague and friend Shri J.D. Pandey but for whose assistance I would have not been able to get the manuscript, typed in a shorter period for printing. At the same time, I pay my sincere thanks to Dr. R-K. Taneja and Dr. (Mrs.) Usha Taneja for their cordial advice to have this glossary published without, making it very br.lky and more costly.

While concluding, I pay my sincere thanks to Dr. Prem Nath Jain, the great founder of Jain Homoeo Publications in India, for having accepted the work for publication.
