CASE REPORTS

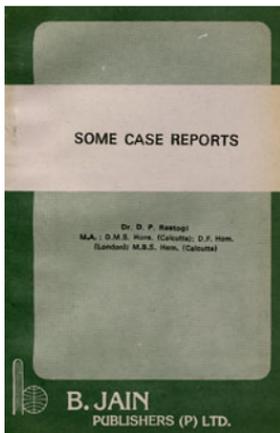

Case 1. An officer of the Army Headquarters consulted me for intra-muscular abscess in the right arm for which he was referred to the Surgical Specialist. The right arm showed a swelling of stony hardness, it felt heavy but there was little pain. The officer was told by the Surgical Specialist that the abscess has got to be opened. I prescribed Silicea 1000 2 doses and advised the patient to come the next day as I wanted to observe the change and ensure that there is no aggravation. Next day the patient reported, he felt some lightness in the right arm. I administered Sac Loc for 2 days. When the patient came back he confirmed the earlier improvement but there was no further improvement. I prescribed Silicea 2 doses daily and asked the patient to come daily to me. After the administration of 2 doses daily I noted increasing improvement every day and in about 10 days there was no «welling left, the muscles of the arm became soft and there remained no sign of disease. I stopped Silicea and kept the patient on Sac Loc for another week.

Case 2. Mr. R.P. aged 36 years had taken «very sort of medicine for his lumbago but found no relief, he had been advised to sleep on hard bed but this also did not help him. In the last he decided to consult me. On listening to him I tried my best to get some modality or some other point to prescribe but I did not get any clue. He passed regular motion, his appetite was normal, he had normal sleep, he was so full of vigour that he said "Sir, I have no disease except this pain". Those were winter days, very chilly. I asked him whether he took bath daily. He said that he took daily bath with cold water for the last 11 years (roughly the duration of his lumbago). . I thought this might be the cause and Sulph 30 helped her very much. Her chest pain was better by lying on right side. Bryonia 200% later 1 M was prescribed. It helped the patient very much but slight pain remained impeding respiration. For this Abrotanum 200 2 doses only were prescribed and the pain was completely relieved. The basis of this prescription was a hint from Allen's keynotes which records in the relationship of Abrotanum. "After Acon. and Bry. in pleurisy, when pressing sensation remains in affected side impeding respiration."

Case 5. I was requested to make a domiciliary visit to a patient at Malviya Nagar. The patient was 76 years old and had a supra-pubic cystotomy done at the A.I.I.M.S., New Delhi as he could not pass urine through the natural way because of the enlargement of the prostate gland. The patient had myocardial infarction some years back and had raised blood pressure and ECG., recorded left bundle block. Because of these considerations removal of the prostate gland was not undertaken by the surgeons. The patient was with a rubber catheter introduced in the bladder and advised to go with it till his B.P. and cardiac condition improved sufficiently to allow the prostatectomy. He was also told that there was no possibility of his passing urine through the natural way. The old man asked me whether Homoeopathy could help. I replied that I was hopeful and I would do my best. The patient had a robust build. He told that before partition he had taken a large amount of ghee and milk. He incurred financial losses but this did not worry him. There was a history of Gonorrhoea. In the past one year his urine* stopped several times but except on the last occasion when suprapubic cystotomy was necessary, he could pass urine after a rubber catheter was passed in the hospital. The patient complained of burning in the bladder. Prior to suprapubic cystotomy he had complained of burning during micturition besides frequency of micturition. Now he was very anxious to pass urine through the natural way as he was afraid of the hazards of operation. I did not find any other symptom. I prescribed
