

Eli G. Jones
Cancer - Its Causes, Symptoms and Treatment

Reading excerpt

Cancer - Its Causes, Symptoms and Treatment

of Eli G. Jones

Publisher: B. Jain

<http://www.narayana-verlag.com/b1160>

In the Narayana webshop you can find all english books on homeopathy, alternative medicine and a healthy life.

Copying excerpts is not permitted.

Narayana Verlag GmbH, Blumenplatz 2, D-79400 Kandern, Germany

Tel. +49 7626 9749 700

Email info@narayana-verlag.com

<http://www.narayana-verlag.com>

SECTION ONE

THE CAUSE OF CANCER

THE medical profession have been theorizing as to the cause of cancer for many years. About once in six months we read under startling head lines in the public press, that the cause of cancer has been discovered! Students in the laboratory and with the microscope, now and then make this announcement to the world, that a serum has been discovered that will cure cancer! Vast sums of money have been expended in erecting cancer hospitals; institutes for "cancer research ". Remedies have been lauded time and again as a cure for this disease, yet the people keep on dying in the same old fashioned way. We have tried to deceive ourselves and the public with the comforting thought that cancer was not on the increase, but the fact is that the mortality from cancer in England is $4\frac{1}{2}$ times greater than fifty years ago. In the United States, in 1890 there were 18,536 deaths from cancer; in 1900 there were 29,222 deaths from this disease. At the present time the mortality cannot be less than fifty thousand annually. Dr. John A. McGlenn, in a paper before the Philadelphia Medical Society says: " That one man out of every thirty-two and one woman out of every eleven die of cancer-. After the age of thirty-five one man out of every seventeen and one woman out of every nine die of cancer; one-third of the deaths from all surgical conditions were due to cancer."

It would appear from the above that cancer is not being cured, that it is still numbered among the incurable diseases. It has been the practice of many of the profession to cut out everything that looked like a cancer, but statistics will abundantly prove that a surgical operation not only does not cure cancer, but really hastens the death of the victim. A surgeon can only cut out what is seen and felt under the knife, while millions of cancer germs grow and multiply in the blood, the nuclei of future cancer. Another fact, the surgeon seems to forget that every operation is a shock to the nervous system, it lowers the nerve power, weakens the power of resistance to disease and thus encourages the invasion of cancer.

It is often remarked that after an operation "the wound healed up very quickly", why? Because nature rebels against such mutilation and repairs the damage as soon as possible. While sticking to the old theory that cancer is a local disease and depending on surgical operations to cure it, the regular profession have not cured the malady. Is it not about time that we should abandon the theory of the fathers and do some thinking for ourselves? The men in this country who have treated this disease successfully have treated it as a constitutional or blood disease. From my own experience of forty years in the study and medical treatment of cancer in all its forms, I am convinced that it is the local manifestation of a blood disease. To say that a disease is incurable because some one else has said so, to sit calmly down and repeat parrot-like "it cannot be cured" is unmanly, is un-American, is cowardly. What are we waiting for, some savant in Germany, France or Italy to show us how to cure cancer?

The victims of cancer are dying all around us; what can we do for these poor unfortunates? The object of this book is to get the profession interested in the ra-

SECTION THREE

THE X-RAY TREATMENT

DURING the past six years over two hundred cases of cancer have come under my notice where the X-Ray has been tried and it has left the patient in a worse condition than before treatment.

The X-Ray is concentrated lightning and when applied to a cancer leaves the nerves and blood vessels supersensitive, so that the patient cannot bear the mildest dressing on the diseased growth.

I have seen the face and the whole side of the body burnt as if by hot steam. It was cruel and inhuman to experiment with patients in that way. Trypsin and radium have been tried and failed just as any form of purely local treatment will fail, for cancer is not a local disease. I have seen several cases of cancer where the hypodermatic treatment had been used. The whole abdomen was covered with scars where the stuff had been injected into the skin, but the cancer kept on growing.

SECTION SIX

TAKING A CASE

IN " taking a case " of cancer to treat we want to look the patient over carefully; we want to know something of his habits of life. If he is a rintero Deraie man, uses intoxicating drinks, we cannot cure him, for alcohol heats the blood and acts the same on cancer as kerosene does on fire. It is best to let such cases severely alone. The morphine or opium fiend cannot be cured, for the drug is all the time working dead against your remedies. We examine the pulse of our patient; we find the pulse of cancer a weak pulse, often a discouraged feeling to it, and quicker than normal. The weight and feeling of the muscles show lack of nutrition. The tongue under its yellowish, white color shows, in advanced cancer a dark red color; in the last stages we have the "beef steak " tongue. The white of the eye has a pearly tint with greenish yellow spots, showing a drain upon the system, toxic matter in the blood and decomposition of albumen. The eyes will tell you if the glands are acting normally or not. The tongue shows you whether the patient is digesting his food or not; if he cannot digest his food he cannot make good blood. The pulse tells you whether the vital forces are strong or weak. You must learn to study the quality and character of the pulse; until you can do that, you cannot cure this disease or any other.

Thus it is, by a careful intelligent study of the eye, tongue and pulse of our patient, we can get a good idea of the advancement made by the disease and the

Eli G. Jones

Cancer - Its Causes, Symptoms and Treatment

302 pages, pb
publication 2014

order

More books on homeopathy, alternative medicine and a healthy life www.narayana-verlag.com